How much does a genuine single-mode fiber optic cable cost

Overview

Cost of Fiber Optic Cable: Pricing Guide (2026)Fiber Type and Count: Single-mode fiber typically costs $0.10 to $0.50 per foot for the cable itself, while.

Key Takeaways

Standard single-mode fiber optic cable typically costs between $0. 30 and $2. 80 per meter ($0.

09–$0. 85 per foot), depending on specifications and features.

Typical Pricing

Bulk standard single-mode cable: $0. 09 to $0. 50 per foot for basic indoor or outdoor runs, with retail prices ranging from $1 to $6 per foot depending on strand count and jacket type.

Pre-terminated or patch cables: Higher cost due to factory termination, often $2 to $7 per foot. Armored cables: Provide extra protection for harsh environments or direct burial, costing $0. 50 to $5 per foot, or $1.

15 to $6. 50 per meter. Indoor plenum-rated cables: LSZH (Low Smoke Zero Halogen) or fire-rated cables are more expensive due to safety materials, typically adding 25–40% to the base price.

Factors Affecting Cost

Construction Type: Armored, plenum-rated, or outdoor-rated cables cost more due to additional materials and design requirements. Fiber Count: Higher strand counts increase price proportionally; for example, a 12-strand cable is cheaper than a 24-strand cable. Application: Indoor, outdoor, or direct burial installations influence cost due to environmental protection needs.

Pre-

Termination: Factory-terminated cables save labor but increase material cost. Regional and Labor Costs: Installation, permits, and local regulations can significantly affect total project cost, sometimes exceeding the cable price itself.

Summary

For budgeting purposes, expect standard single-mode fiber optic cable to cost roughly $0. 30–$2. 80 per meter ($0.

09–$0. 85 per foot) for bulk purchases, with additional costs for armored, plenum-rated, or pre-terminated options. Installation, labor, and project-specific requirements can substantially increase the overall cost per foot when deployed in real-world projects.
